WASHINGTON ALLIANCE FOR BETTER SCHOOLS

You are invited to attend a two day ELL workshop for regular K-12 classroom teachers:
Adaptations are Essential: Adapting Reading Instruction for English Language Learners.

Day One: Tuesday, February 14, 2006 8:30 a.m. – 3:00 p.m. &
Day Two: Tuesday, March 28, 2006 8:30 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Where: Shoreline Center – Room D-105
18560 1st Ave NE
Shoreline, WA 98155

Target Audience: Mainstream teachers in grades K-12 who are working with English language learners in their classroom. The sheltered English framework and the generic adaptations may be used at any grade level.

Instructor: Sue Wallace – ELL Trainer

Cost: Alliance members $110 registration fee for two day training which includes lunch and manual
Non-Alliance members $375

Course Description: This training will present parts of a resource guide: Implementing the SIOP Model, Sheltered Instruction for ELLS in Mainstream Classrooms. The guidebook has two major components: 1) a framework for designing “sheltered” content lessons and for determining which adaptations are necessary, and 2) instructional strategies targeting reading EALR’s which are measured in the WASL. Both components will be presented. Strategies will be modeled.

The workshop format is interactive. Each teacher who attends will gain a copy of all the strategies and have an opportunity to see six strategies modeled by teachers who are implementing these strategies in their classrooms. Participants will also share their own knowledge and experience in working with English Language Learners. Teachers will be encouraged to try at least one-two strategies in their classroom and submit feedback on their classroom application at the second session.
